

CONTRIBUTORS

Beata Anton is an independent research worker who graduated from the Jagiellonian University and is currently living in Finland. Her main area of research includes Mesoamerican civilisations, with a special focus on the Maya culture.

Jagoda Czarnotta is an MA student at the Centre for Comparative Studies of Civilisations at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków, whose main area of interest is Buddhism (mainly Sinhalese).

Agnieszka Erdt is a PhD student at the Institute of Philosophy in Warsaw. Her main areas of research include Qur'anic commentaries (tafsir), Shi'a philosophy and theology. Her recent publications include Idea tyranii w tradycji perskiej i jej współczesny wymiar na przykładzie wyborów prezydenckich w 2009 r., "Bliski Wschód" 2009, No. 6; Od okcydenty do okcydentalizmu. Irańskie odpowiedzi na zachodnią dominację, [in:] Kulturowe uwarunkowania rozwoju w Azji i Afryce, eds. K. Górak-Sosnowska, J. Jurewicz, Łódź 2010.

Dr. Renata Iwicka holds an MA in Japanese and Chinese Studies and a PhD in Cultural Studies. She is an assistant professor at the Centre for Comparative Studies of Civilisations at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. Her primary areas of academic interest include demonology, the history and culture of East Asia (primarily pertaining to the Korean Peninsula and Japan), modern popular culture, and mythology.

Dr. Dorota Kamińska-Jones is an assistant professor at the Nicolaus Copernicus University in Toruń (Poland). Her main area of research includes Indian and British art, colonialism and gender studies. Her recent publications include: The Figure of the Indian Woman-victim as a Pretext for Colonialism and Imperialism, [in:] Women in Different Global Context. Culture – Gender – Violence, eds. J. Maćkiewicz, E. Pająk-Ważna, Cracow 2014; Strój jako wyznacznik statusu kobiety w Indiach, [in:] Strój – zwierciadło kultury, eds. M. Furmanik-Kowalska, J. Wasilewska, Warszawa–Toruń 2013; England's Affair with India: Bibi in the Art of European Artists in the Second Half of the Eighteenth Century, [in:] The Artistic Traditions of Non-European Cultures, Vol. 2, ed. B. Łakomska, Warszawa–Toruń 2012.

Jan Bazyli Klakła is a double MA student at the Departments of Sociology of Law at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. He also holds a Bachelor degree in Comparative Studies of Civilizations earned at the same university. His main area of research includes the sociology and anthropology of law, particularly customary law and customary-based conflict resolution. His recent publications include: Conflict Resolution in Clan Societies (2015), Mediations in Albanian Customary Law (2014) and The Role of a Meal in the Resolution Process of a Clan Conflict (2014).

Dr. Mateusz M. Kłagisz is an assistant professor at the Department of Iranian Studies at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. His main area of research on Afghanistan includes the question of modernisation and regression in twentieth-century Afghanistan, especially in the communist period (1978–1992).

Dr. Paulina Niechciał is an assistant professor at the Centre for Comparative Studies of Civilisations at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. Her main area of research includes the sociology and anthropology of religion, religious minorities, processes of identity building and the contemporary culture and society of Iran, Afganistan and Tajikistan. Her recent publications include a book entitled Mniejszość zaratusztriańska we współczesnym Teheranie. O tożsamości zbiorowej w kontekście dominacji szyickiej (Zoroastrian Minority in Modern Tehran: On Collective Identity in the Context of Shi'a Domination, 2013) as well as a variety of academic articles.

Victoria Reeves holds a BA in Psychology from the Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas, US. Victoria's academic studies have focused on the psychological and physiological benefits of mindfulness meditation in individuals with cancer and chronic illness. Presently she focuses on observing the benefits of Buddhist meditation on the subjective well-being of individuals in Western cultures.

Alicja Rybkowska is an MA candidate at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. Her main area of research includes modern and contemporary art and the influence of philosophy on artistic practices and theories. Her recent publications include the following articles: Sztuka Nowej Rzeczowości w świetle Teorii awangardy Petera Bürgera (The Art of the New Objectivity in Light of Peter Bürger's Theory of the Avant-Garde); Polska sztuka krytyczna wobec współczesnej estetyzacji rzeczywistości (Polish Critical Art and the Problem of the Contemporary Aesthetisation of Reality); Dzikusi, barbarzyńcy, maniacy, szaleńcy. O społecznym wykluczeniu artystów w XIX i XX wieku (Savages, Barbarians, Maniacs, Lunatics. On Social Exclusion of the Artists in the 19th and 20th Century).

Magdalena Rydzewska is an MA in Psychology, Assistant University of Szczecin, Institute of Psychology. Her research focuses on positive psychology and the psychology of religion. Specifically, she is interested in subjective well-being, meditation and the effects and parallels between Buddhism and psychology.

Agnieszka Słomian is a Russian culture expert, a philologist and doctoral student at the Faculty of International and Political Studies, Jagiellonian University in Kraków. Her scholarly interests concern Central Asia, especially Kazakhstan, and she deals mainly with society and culture. She is currently conducting academic research on ethnocultural organisations in Kazakhstan and the role of cultural and artistic projects in forming the contemporary identity of ethnic and national minorities in Kazakhstan.

Polish Journal of the Arts and Culture

The „Polish Journal of the Arts and Culture” was started in 2012 as a series of “Estetyka i Krytyka”.

The „Polish Journal of the Arts and Culture” is a quarterly peer-reviewed academic publication which welcomes submissions from all interested parties wishing to exchange more profound thoughts and ideas on different aspects of culture – its nature, the processes that have shaped it in the past and continue to influence it contemporarily, and its forms that have varied depending on the period or civilisation in which they developed. The interdisciplinary profile of the Journal allows combining different research perspectives including philosophical, sociological, anthropological as well as literature, religion, or broadly understood cultural studies, with the recent developments in the latter being its special focus.

Publications in the Journal include:

- theoretical papers,
- methodological texts,
- reports on empirical studies,
- other reports and communications,
- translations of papers focused on different aspects of cultural studies,
- reviews of other texts of relevance for cultural studies.

We invite submissions in Polish or English.

Only original papers that have not been published elsewhere will be admitted for publication.

For editorial Policy and review procedure refer to: www.pjac.uj.edu.pl

Contact:

e-mail: pjac@uj.edu.pl

Address:

Instytut Filozofii UJ
ul. Grodzka 52, 31-044
31-044 Kraków